Inclusion Fair

Team YMM was proud to represent YMM at the Inclusion Fair at Christina Gordon Public School in March.

They shared information about YMM's Hidden Disabilities Sunflower program, which supports travellers with non-visible disabilities by discreetly signalling they may need additional assistance.

Sunflower lanyards, wristbands and pins are available at the Information Centre on Level 1 for any passengers who would like one. The program continues to grow, with more businesses and organizations recognizing the sunflower symbol and supporting inclusive experiences across our community.

Have you seen our new ads?

As your local airport, we're proud to serve this community, and our latest campaign is all about what matters most, your time. From shorter lines to a smoother, more predictable journey, flying from YMM means spending less time getting there and more time where it counts.

You earned your time. Use it well. Fly YMM.

On the Roof

When winter decides to go all in, so do we.

With roughly three times our usual snowfall this season, our Facilities Manager Adam Lo Bianco was up on the roof on March 25, working alongside his team to monitor snow load across the terminal. Together, they are making sure critical systems like vents, drains and HVAC intakes stay clear, functional and well within design limits.

2026 YMM Annual Public Meeting

Join the Fort McMurray Airport Authority team for our 2026 Annual Public Meeting to hear updates on airport performance, priorities and what's ahead.

The session will feature highlights from the 2025 Annual Report and key plans for 2026. Light refreshments and parking validated. All are welcome to attend.

PASSENGER

“There is a profound sense of relief in an airport that doesn't feel overwhelming. It's efficient, it's quiet, and it respects your time. By the time you're through the gate, you're already feeling the stress of the daily grind melt away.”

That's the YMM experience.

Congrats, Luckman Mohanarajah, our April YMM Passenger of the Month.

YMM History Moment

This image shows a riverside floatplane base that once connected Fort McMurray and surrounding communities, long before today's modern airport. These operations were a vital lifeline, keeping people, supplies and opportunity moving across northern Alberta.

A reminder that connection has always been at the heart of YMM.
